

Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Scathe - 15 Jul 2011 18:25

---

Hi guys,

Right well... over the last several years i have been using a razer copperhead gaming mouse. On an old razer boomslang (rollerball) mouse mat which isnt a good combo. Although it has seen me through for a fair while, my mouse is now drunk and needs replacing. It keeps flipping my aim about without me doing it which is really frustrating when trying to aim.

I am a right handed, palm grip gamer (so prefer bigger mice) I currently have easy access to 5 buttons and a scroll wheel. Feel I could use an extra one or two buttons for use ingame though....

I need help, links, advice in whatever you can recommend with regards to helping me buy a new mouse and mat. Price isnt too much of an issue really, although obviously if i can get what is needed cheaper this is a bonus.

Really appreciate any help anyone can give me here, I did do loads of research when buying this one thats gone sideways now, but im way out of touch with the likes of this subject hense the request for help!

Cheers guys! 😊

Scathe

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Scathe - 15 Jul 2011 20:49

---

👤 Yeah I realised that mate.

I am gettin the mouse as a b'day pressy from my wife ya see, and I showed her your msg and recommendation and she burst out laughing.

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Gimp - 15 Jul 2011 21:08

---

aw cool, an lol 🤔

  HAPPY BIRTHDAAYYY!!!!!!!!!! 🎂

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by substick - 15 Jul 2011 21:27

---

I don't really recommend any mice but I would recommend a razor, steelseries and Thermaltake mouse but most of them are quite expensive.

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Liquid Snake - 15 Jul 2011 21:27

---

rofl gimp you do think he sucks but thats another story! 🤔

oh and happy B'day in advance! 🎂 and in my case loads off 🎂

ill probly forget it again soon so yeh 🤔

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Scathe - 15 Jul 2011 21:43

---

---

Hehe.... Hold ye horses! it isnt until next week lol.... but thanks anyways 😊

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by FadeToBlack - 16 Jul 2011 04:41

---

I recommend the Logitech G500 , shaped like the MX518, adjustable weight, very precise, ...

I never used a razor though, so I can't compare. But ever since my MX 510 I've been a big fan of logitech mice.

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Johannicus - 16 Jul 2011 06:22

---

I would recommend Qpad 5k gaming mouse wich I really like and use myself.

www.corporate.qpad.se/modules/news/article.php?storyid=229

I have also heard alot of good about Cyborg R.A.T. gaming mouse wich is costumizeable for all sizes of hands and has a real cool look.

cyborggaming.com/

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by Scathe - 16 Jul 2011 10:36

---

Thanks guys, really appreciate your input 😊

=====

Re: Gaming mouse & mat required, help please!

Posted by TheBlackWaltz - 16 Jul 2011 11:06

---

[quote=&quot;deN&quot; post=24295]Recommend a SteelSeries mat, really good :p and ofc as i said yesterday, the Logitech MX518

=====