Warcraft server config reset.

It seems since last night some configs have reset on the WCS server. I talked to Mentoz and was informed that the something happened and the mod was gone from the server this morning. So I thought I'd make a post so people can point out what they think is different/out of place to try and get it changed back.

So far I've noticed:

- Spectate - Only able to spec own team
- Airaccel - Seems to be very low, people cant turn while flying though the air especially on scoutzknivez, etc. It may not only be sv_airaccelerate it might be another cvar thats gone back to default also.

Hope that helps, feel free add anything.

Thank you for posting!

The server config was reset after a problem with the server - we hope to be able to restore the original. However, if this proves difficult, this information will be invaluable!

is it ok now? I found no differences between the version I have on backup and the current version...

besides the rcon pass

Cheers for doing that - there should have been a few subtle differences related to airspeed, etc?

yeah that will be great or just overwrite the current one with the old one - I just mocked it up from a generic one earlier as I ran out of time at lunch. The server config gets reloaded each map so it should go back to normal fairly instant.

Ok, they are merged now and and should be already running on the server if he reloads it every map change.
