

Mod

Posted by alienwareink - 23 Jan 2013 01:19

---

Hey Admins! is meh and voodoo said that to be a mod you need to be helpful, loyal and active and i have been all of those sooooooooooo..

---

Re: Mod

Posted by Tunes - 23 Jan 2013 23:19

---

Chifilly wrote:

Everything VooDoo and Postal said to be honest. And, there's an edit button on posts for a reason. It's to prevent triple posts -_-

I second that and

Everyone above twk-r didn't ask for more rights/responsibility.

You may not know, or know, but I'm a complete bitch with rights abuse on the server.

---

Re: Mod

Posted by alienwareink - 24 Jan 2013 00:33

---

i guess you guys are right.

Ill probebly never get it .

---

Re: Mod

Posted by reacT - 25 Jan 2013 11:38

---

Without appearing condescending, the whole reason someone should want mod/admin is to help people out, strengthen and keep the community fair whilst upholding the rules and maintaining a high level of maturity thus resulting in a pleasant experience for everyone, now as stated earlier you do not necessarily fall into these categories. Just because claim to do so, doesn't mean everyone will agree, no offense. I will not pretend that I have any influence over such a decision anyhow, but I firmly believe that you should start by actually being the things you claim to be (helpful, loyal, friendly etc), people will obviously take notice and even if it's a conscious decision or not, their opinion of you is bound increase positively, anyways this is just my opinion, like I said. Not trying to offend you.

---