

Smaller map size

Posted by Squallhero - 28 Aug 2012 22:06

I have been told that our map size is 32 mil x 32 mil. Would it be okay if we had a smaller map size on the next map reset please? I find it very hard to raid other peoples' bases when 50k is already hard to get to.

Lemme say... hummm... no

The idea of the game and the ammount of players passing by, requires a quite big map and my server can handle it well I guess.

but instead of having such a big map, couldn't we get more max people on the server? I find it kind of pointless to have raids when very few people get on already.

Well, the server has its ups and downs, I would like to have it full with 30 players all the time, for some reason is kinda empty lately, maybe needs more advertising, but we lost two main members recently and still suffering their loss. 😞

Well Squallhero, my friend, I told you to post in the forums and it was to no avail!... sorry about that. 🙄

Oh, and Tunes, following up on your point: I definitely think we need to advertise TWK more as it does seem very underpopulated lately. And hey, if do our marketing right, you might even need to raise the server slots. 😊

Whenever the world needs regenerating yes. For example, the map will have reset for the 1.8 release, and the map got reset for the 1.3 release as well. I don't think they'll be any new resets soon though.
