Logblock access..

_____

Another player has pointed out to me that they had access to logblock.

Literally [Player] walking around with bedrock checking out the logblock stats anywhere he pleased.

I think this needs to be double checked to ensure that Players don't have access to rollback or any other restorative commands through /lb

Allowing players to only check who did what is fine in my opinion.

Well, the only thing [players] have is the ability to check their own logs with /lb me

I checked the perms and that's what happens, if someone had the bedrock, tell me who so I can investigate.

Yeah i've noticed players have access to another super abusive command that i rather not state here :(

I can't remove their access because i accidently changed my rank from Admin to TWK-L although i'm still an operator though i don't have access to premissions :(

Edit: All fixed by tunes :)
