

Starecat's base

Posted by Gimp - 02 Dec 2012 20:16

Hey some weird ass thing happened to starecat's base after the crash last night (my bad). I've tried using rollback but that did balls all so heres hoping someone else will know what do to 🙄

=====

Re: Starecat's base

Posted by Deity - 24 Dec 2012 00:31

Thank you for trying Gimp, but apparently nobody cares about StareCat. I tried moving on and making it into a nether base, but i was banned for doing so....

=====

Re: Starecat's base

Posted by jack3303 - 24 Dec 2012 00:39

yeah as a result of the admins looking at our base they refused to help us and where quite honestly rude to us. ./ and i keep saying that admins are always right. so basically make me feel like its my fault that our land got destroyed in the first place. i was unsatisfied with the way i was treated. other admins. ./ though i did respect the amount of assistance Gimp tried to give.

=====

Re: Starecat's base

Posted by Chifilly - 24 Dec 2012 01:30

For a start, we didn't refuse to help you, and we weren't rude. We gave you options, those options being move base, or wait for WorldEdit to work so we can regen the area under what's still there, but you won't get back the bits of the base you lost. We never said admins are always right, you were the ones saying that we were implying that, and quite frankly you guys, mostly Deity, were rude to us. We know it's not your fault your land was lost, but it wasn't ours either, and there's not much else that can be done other than what we said, unless someone else has any ideas as to what can be done.

Also, what you did Deity was not making it into a Nether base, it was down right grieving the land, even if it was your land, and also being rude to VooDoo and me as we confronted you about it (don't have screenshots of the conversation, but Tunes probably has logs)

Screenshots: