Levels

Posted by Chifilly - 13 Jul 2011 12:27

_____

Didn't quite know where to put this, so i'll stick it here

I made a webpage that will (when it's finished) display the levels of everyone's skills on the SMP server (link here)

All I need now (if the levels are saved on a MySQL database) is a hostname, username and password to the database that has read-only permissions (so there can be no editing going on), and the database name, table name and all the columns in the database in order for it to be completed

If i'm not allowed these, or it's not in a MySQL database, then just look at the page and see how I made the design fit with TWK's design but if I can have this information, let me know so I can finish the page. I know it's very simple to do, but i'm bored and don't want to see it half finished

Thanking you muchly

==