

Steve Jobs died

Well mate, you're gone. RIP

When he left Apple CEO position, and knowing how the pancreas cancer develops and kills, he lived pretty much with it, but no one stays here for long with it, I said he wouldn't live to see 2012...

Although I no apple products fan (overpriced and over hyped), he was one of the contributors on the computer industry, so for that, we will miss you.

Farewell Mister Jobs.

That^

also, I'm not going to lie, i didn't know much about him at all really but i still feel bad that he died to such a bad illness at the young age of 58.

Yeah its really sad that he died young, but its worst that he suffered from a disease before that 😞

And even though Apple dorducts are overpriced they are really useful

Steve brought quite a lot to the world, so for that I'm thankful to him, and wish his family and friends all the best in this time.

I was never much of an apple fan either. Don't like Macs.....

But we would not HAVE PCs if it weren't for Steve Jobs.

R.I.P, man.
