you came to the right place 🙄

, well i recently bought the razer naga molten edition mouse along with a razer sphex mousemat 🙄 itll cost ya a bit but its defo worth it the accuracy and speed it has is just ridiculous.

for a keyboard i suggest the razer

The mouse

store.razerzone.com/store/razerusa/en_US.../categoryId.54536600

And its specs

17 Fully-programmable MMO-optimized buttons (including 12 button thumb grid)

5600dpi Razer Precision 3.5G Laser Sensor

1000Hz Ultrapolling / 1ms response time

Zero-acoustic Ultraslick feet

Unlimited character profiles with AddOns

Optional MMO-specific software AddOns

Approximate size: 116L x 69W x 41H (in mm)

its basicly a mmo gaming mouse but the buttons have numerous other uses to 🤔

Mousemat (it isnt the one i got i still recommend the sphex but i doubt you would want a mousemat you stick on your desk for me it was just a quick solution 🤔)

store.razerzone.com/store/razerusa/en_US.../categoryId.35208900

Keyboard, havnt gotten this one yet but a mate of mine has it and its well good imo insane keystroke registration and 6 simultaneous key presses.

store.razerzone.com/store/razerusa/en_GB/pd/productID.235198600 and if your planning on getting a headset i would go for something like this store.razerzone.com/store/razerusa/en_GB.../categoryId.35209700

Well, simple and short

Keyboards, mkplus master keyboard, found no links of it, but is a full key regular sized keyboard, ultrasim and ultra quiet, in fact, after knowing a few gazzillions keyboards, I can say this one pwns and costs near nothing, I remember being around 20€, awesome for gaming and regular use.

Mices, regular laser microsoft one for regular use and an razer coppermine (old) laser for gaming (FPS'n'stuff)

Pretty much it, TRY the keyboard BEFORE buying them, don't go on the hype, good spots are stores with public displays so you can hammer it around a bit and feel it, good keyboards are not necessarily expensive, unless looking for a special feature.

Mices goes the same away, get the feeling in the hand, does it fit? a small mice on a big hand may be a pain in the wrist and vice versa.

Really trying the shizz makes a good buy, like gf's 😊

I would advise Razor mouses, they are really good 🐭

As for keyboards...hmmm...

I have noticed that I am a bit diffrent on these forums as I tend to suggest products that no one else does. And here I go again.. 🐭

My recommendation for gaming mouse is..drumroll..QPAD! Yes they make gaming mouses now aswell. I use the QPAD®|5K Gaming Laser Mouse myself and like it, but as Tunes said, it need to feel good in your hand so try and find a place to try them. I tried mine on a game con and toke my chance at trying it 🐭

www.corporate.qpad.se/modules/news/index.php?storytopic=11

As for Keyboard I use Logitech Illuminate wich I really like. Keys with light in them is great in a dark room.

www.logitech.com/en-gb/keyboards/keyboard/devices/4740

I would also recommend these:

cyborggaming.com/prod/rat9.htm

They have probably one of the coolest and most adaptable gaming mice out there!
