

Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by Tunes - 25 Jan 2010 11:11

---

Well... Tired of firefox, safari, chrome and ie hickups with flash stuff, either video or games...

Solution... use opera.

Its a fact, the lap I use for everyday work, its a sony vaio, with one core 1.8Ghz, an nvidia 6800go and 3Gb of ram.

Its impossible to see any video on either of those AWESOME browsers or play any flash game.

The only machine were I don't have almost any framedropping is the PS4 (search the post) but... FFS it has 4 cores and 2 GPUS, also 4GB of quality ram in there... Full motion video is possible starting on the p3 450Mhz, somehow adobe is fecking up things and we need super computers to play video and flash games... FFS

Well, now I can (with Opera) view youtube again without me getting freaked with frame dropping.

Cheers for that wonderfull browser, and yes, I still believe its insides are WAY better than any other browser around.

(flame war started) 🍌

=====

Re: Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by Tunes - 25 Jan 2010 11:21

---

And by the way, HD on my vaio was IMPOSSIBLE, almost 0 frames per second... guess what happens with opera... not a glitch, Chrome was the only browser capable of doing around 12 fps and dropping another 12... IE and firefox were unable to do more than 1 frame per 2 seconds on 720p

=====

Re: Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by liger - 25 Jan 2010 11:46

---

PEBKAC

=====

Re: Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by VoGon - 25 Jan 2010 13:07

---

Indeed...

LOL

=====

Re: Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by Tunes - 25 Jan 2010 15:33

---

liger wrote:

PEBKAC

maybe more a PEIF

Also, after the last update, FF keeps crashing if 2 or more windows with flash components are open, remember my average tabs is around 40.

Then again... opera.. not a single glitch.

I mainly use FF now for web development cause of its excelent plugins, the rest.. opera FTW.

=====

Re: Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by liger - 25 Jan 2010 15:42

---

Tunes wrote:

liger wrote:

PEBKAC

maybe more a PEIF

Also, after the last update, FF keeps crashing if 2 or more windows with flash components are open, remember my average tabs is around 40.

Definitely PEBKAC 😊

Ive been on 40 tabs+ for days (Sleep mode)

I would recommend you start a new user on FF and install extensions (only those u use) again

=====

Re: Flash video (youtube) frame dropping solved

Posted by Tunes - 25 Jan 2010 16:27

---

liger wrote:

Tunes wrote:

liger wrote:

PEBKAC

maybe more a PEIF

Also, after the last update, FF keeps crashing if 2 or more windows with flash components are open, remember my average tabs is around 40.

Definitely PEBKAC 🤪

Ive been on 40 tabs+ for days (Sleep mode)

I would recommend you start a new user on FF and install extensions (only those u use) again

I then must bow to your awesomeness!

Done that, even in a new xp/vista install, it still does the same.. defo a pebkac but not mine.

=====