

Minecraft

Posted by Tunes - 21 Sep 2010 10:56

Well, after seeing a few videos about it, I found the game quite addictive.

You can get for free (yet) cause the game costs 8€ or so. www.minecraft.net onclick=">window.open(this.href);return false;

Also a game server can be setup 🍌

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by colin1uk - 21 Sep 2010 11:57

temp page cos its down ?

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by Tunes - 21 Sep 2010 12:40

Yes, the game coder and only one in the staff, is having problems with servers, I've emailed him just in case he wants some speedy hosting 🍌

ATM the game is free and at the login screen, just press login and play standalone.

The game will support multiplayer online, remember this in the dev works for less than a year.

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by Tunes - 22 Sep 2010 11:22

Ok, the site is back online, I've just bought the game for 9.95€ 🍌

I've already built a humongous cave 🤖

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by colin1uk - 22 Sep 2010 13:13

il have a spy tonight , can u try it before you buy it ?

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by Tunes - 22 Sep 2010 23:22

If you don't find a place on the site to get the "installer", I can supply it and the resource file (sounds and stuff) and login offline, really offline, no internet connection at all, otherwise, no sound. 🤖 and play the usual random gen HUGE maps, it will feel strange, cause the graphics are really naive but easy to get the hang of it and plays on a window, very rough really.

I'm kinda addicted to this game, basically, you can design your place, in-game features are continuously evolving, since its still alpha releases with less than a year indev, its a game I'll play along for a few time, imho (excluding gmod and few others) its the only game where you really freely change your environment, A LOT of digging is necessary, hours of digging and replacing block, managing resources, planting fields, really doing something, at least I like it, and its no slavery game like farmville or alike, very fun and pleasant.

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by liger - 22 Sep 2010 23:44

i dont know how such bad gfx can run so poorly (yes, i know its alpha) whats the "point" of this game? any reference games?

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by slaB - 24 Sep 2010 12:14

All I know is that you mine stuff and then theres zombies attacking at night. Doesn't sound very appealing to me... and the gfx doesn't help.

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by AL Azif - 26 Sep 2010 13:18

i think i am gonna buy it ;o

i tend to get addicted to these kind of games really fast =D

=====

Re: Minecraft

Posted by DreamState - 26 Sep 2010 16:28

My son and I are getting quite addicted also 🤔

=====