Well, after seeing a few videos about it, I found the game quite addictive.

You can get for free (yet) cause the game costs 8€ or so. www.minecraft.net onclick=">window.open(this.href);return false;

Also a game server can be setup 🤖

What pisses me off is having exploding penises, skeletons and whatever more spawning inside my house... crap

BTW, fill at least two large chests with torches, after a soon to come update, lanterns may need more resources to craft, I've already filled two large chests with torches 🤖

My game crashes a few min after I return from the Slip. I dont loose anything like in normal crashes but still its annoying especially if I die in the Slip cause when I spawn again I crash and loose everything that I dropped upon death 🤖

But maybe it doesnt matter cause I dont know if its there when you come back anyway? Anyone know if its possible to get your stuff back if you die in the Slip?

First time I went into hell (or uarever) I died pretty much close to the portal, when I respawned I went into the portal, go my stuff, portal again and recovered, also was carrying next to nothing when I went to hell.

I won't be going there again soon until all bugs are solved and those ghasts shoot less frequently and ARE killable, my portal is infested with ghasts and pissed off pigs.

The only good thing I got from hell is the hell ground that burns forever, anyway, wood already does the same.

I usually crash whenever I teleport/uses spawn or home command. Enabling the fog helps some people, but not me.

Have no ideia, the game rarely crashes on me, except when it really exits, leave an error log, go figure..., anyway

Finding pumpkins! 🍂

Pumpkins will never appear in discovered ground, only when travelling to new zones, they will be generated, cannot be seeded (damn), The ridges between previous map generation and new generation are quite weird, I have a zone in my map with huge mountains generated in a straight line like if they were cut.

I have mined 3 different materials in the Nether now. I also made sure I don't need to go back thru the portal as often by building a workbench and a smelting oven in the Nether. Sadly, there isn't any real use for the materials yet(as far as I know anyway)

Now I need to find some diamonds so I can mine more obsidian to make more portals. Will be interesting to see where in my world I end up after I built the second portal far into the nether.

That weird yellow glass like stuff, the burnable dirt and gravel yes? I've also mined dirt stone and obsidian there but I brought two of those with me and made the other one 🍂

I'm debating building a house in the nether, live out my peaceful days there 🍂

Not crashed yet, but my map did go to 0.08 MB in size and is now 0.2 MB in size after leaving then nether in 4 different locations (I even managed to sail back home after getting lost! Amazing how relieved I was to finally be back there with all my stuf lol)

The first one have been posted earlier as a suggestion for our front page once we launch minecraft servers..if we ever do. But its an awesome video, love it!

The second video is simply..WOW! Now thats a project thats impressing! Screw earth and all those other things you might see, this is a winner(and a one ticket to the loony house) 🤪
