I thought it was already in beta 😊

That means this already amazing game has only just begun!? Anyone who doesn't have this know that I first saw this game when it first ever became available on the net.

My first impressions of it were poor and quite literally dismissed it almost instantly. However, it was then announced a long time after that incident of an up and coming game called mincecraft had swept the twk gamers and that we should all take a look at it. I recognised the name but couldn't remember where from, and so I took a look at it.

Wasn't long before I was hooked just like the rest and building castles, setting first to my wooden houses when trying to make lava waterfalls and trying to figure a way to kill those terrifying ghasts down in hell. Well worth it and as the prive is going to double when it goes beta... get it now!!!
