

Teamfortress 2

Posted by slaB - 22 Aug 2008 15:29

Today, I received a pleasant msg from Valve, that I had been given a Guestpass for Teamfortress 2 as a thank you for buying it.

Now, all ppl that I play with from Norway all ready have TF2 installed, so the remaining question is:

Who want TF2, for free?

And this is for only those who really want it, not for those who might try it once in a while, but someone who really really want it!:side:

Just msg me on steam or post here if you are interested.

Got it too, but if i'm not mistaken its a weekend only pass, that means you can play only for 2 or 3 days...

Anyway, I have 3 of them also so if anyone wants to try it out please post here.

Behave!

Ohhh, VoGon is right... 😊

"What are guest passes?

A guest pass allows the user to temporarily share a game license with a friend who does not own the game. Guest passes are allocated to users when they purchase certain products. The friend can then play the game for a limited time. Once the guest pass expires, they will be prompted to purchase the game in order to continue playing. A guest pass is an easy way to let your friends try out your favorite games with no commitment or expense on their part."
